Steve’s uplifting, poignant and yet humorous performance helps people to realise their own goals and to take action to turn adversities into golden opportunities within their business, personal and social life.

He takes the audience on an inspiring journey following his commitment and achievements through rehabilitation from being told that he may never walk again when both of his legs were crushed. As he describes the traumatic rehabilitation phase and how he physically grew his own leg back you can feel his determination and understand why he continued to take action and set more goals. He pushed himself into the arena as a disabled athlete to accomplish the accolade of British, European and World Champion in the sport of ParaTriathlon and then onwards as a successful entrepreneur.

Steve’s story explains the mottos, and mantras he created to continue on his path without leaning on his excuses and instead turning them into challenges.
